Important notes about the waiting list:

- The waiting list is the sole source of new applications for low-income housing when it becomes available.
- There are no immediate openings for new applicants in the program. Funding is extremely limited, and new applicants from the waiting list will be considered as current program participants leave the program.
- Redondo Beach Residents receive a preference point on the waiting list. Residents are defined as persons who currently live in the incorporated City of Redondo Beach CA or work (15 hours or more per week) in a business located in the incorporated City of Redondo Beach CA. To qualify for the working preference point, the business must have an active business license on file with the City of Redondo Beach, Business License Department. Because funding is extremely limited, it is highly unlikely that non-residents will be offered assistance in the near future; however, non-residents may apply.

- Priority preference points on the waiting list are given to veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces, Elderly, Disabled Persons and Families. Households headed by single individuals do not receive priority preference points.

Selection process: Applications are encouraged. Applications received during this period will be entered into a lottery from which 5,000 will be accepted for the Redondo Beach Section 8 waiting list. It does not matter when you apply to the list, all applications will have the same opportunity in the lottery. To check the status of an application, applicants may call 1(855) 361-9512 or go to http://www.waitlistcheck.com on or after October 15, 2015. If your application was accepted to the waiting list and you have moved, you must send written notification of the change in address.
